POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

Professor/Special Director for International Programs (#0084910)
College of Tropical Agriculture & Human Resources (CTAHR)
University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa
11 Month appointment, full-time, permanent, tenure track

Other Conditions:
- To begin approximately July 2014. Appointment as Director is dependent upon Dean's approval and continuation contingent upon satisfactory performance. For best consideration all application materials should be received by February 14, 2014.

Duties and Responsibilities:
- Conduct research and instructional activities (which may include teaching one course) in international agriculture and disseminate results to appropriate audiences.
- Seek extramural funds.
- Provide service to the University, CTAHR and community.
- Additional duties as Director:
  - Provide leadership for the development of effective international programs in food, agriculture, human, and natural resource education, research and extension in the College of Tropical Agriculture and Human Resources (CTAHR).
  - Provide vision and dynamic leadership to the international mission of CTAHR. Provide programmatic development and coordination with the Dean and Director of CTAHR, as well as the Associate Deans for Research, Extension and Academics. Represent CTAHR within the University of Hawaii-Manoa on international matters.
  - Advocate for, and facilitate, international activities in CTAHR. Be informed, proactive and articulate with outside interests desiring information on, and linkages with, CTAHR international programs.
  - Aggressively seek and secure extramural funds for international program activities and be proactive in creating donor funding opportunities for CTAHR faculty.
  - Participate in appropriate national and international forums as a means to advancing the international reputation of CTAHR. Establish and maintain close contact with organizations such as the Asian Development Bank, USAID, the World Bank, the CGIAR, the Gates and Winrock Foundations, and other important institutions in the US and other countries.
  - Work closely with CTAHR department chairs, directors, county administrators, and other unit administrators, in a multidisciplinary capacity to foster faculty interest, capabilities, and recognition for international work and to develop and enhance the international aspects of curriculum development, teaching, research, and extension missions of CTAHR.
• Provide managerial support, budget coordination, and other business activities associated with international contractual obligations made by CTAHR.

Minimum Qualifications:
• Ph.D. in a discipline related to agriculture and/or natural resources, or a discipline area well-suited to the requirements of this position from a college or university of recognized standing and a minimum of four (4) years of full-time college or university teaching at the rank of associate professor or equivalent.
• Research productivity which has resulted in significant recognition by the national or international community of scholars active in the same field.
• Significant experience in internationally related activities, preferably as part of an academic faculty or an advanced research institute.
• Demonstrated ability to secure funds that support international programs with evidence of successful competition for funding with an array of funding institutions, that may include public, private, national, and international.
• Understanding of the land grant mission of extension, teaching and research.
• Excellent communication skills, both written and oral.
• Willingness and ability to travel nationally and internationally.

Desirable Qualifications:
• Knowledge of major international research and development priorities and activities globally.
• An understanding of donors and mechanisms necessary for increasing CTHAR’s ability to compete for international funds and for increasing the reputation and awareness of CTAHR by those who fund international activities.
• Fluency in multiple languages.
• Demonstrated experience working with diverse and gender balanced groups.
• Commitment to CTAHR’s core values of excellence, integrity, education, and service.

To Apply:
• Submit the following to the address listed below: 1) Cover letter indicating how you satisfy the minimum and desirable qualifications, 2) curriculum vitae, 3) names and contact information for at least three professional references and 4) official transcripts (copies accepted, however official transcripts will be required upon hire).
